This chair was bought for my Mum who is 96. She is in a care home and they don't supply seats like these. We have seen a big difference in my Mum since she got this chair she is able to stay up a lot longer than she used to in an ordinary wheelchair and the pillow stops her head from flopping to one side. The chair is also much more comfortable and gives her a better quality of life.

Zoe's Story

Zoe is a bright, sociable 21 year old with a zest for life. She enjoys music, photography, and spending time watching her favourite TV shows. With a quick smile and a warm personality, Zoe thrives on connecting with others.

She communicates using an assistive device and lives in her own supported flat at a specialist residential college, a place where she continues to grow in independence and confidence.

Zoe lives with mixed cerebral palsy, with both ataxia and spasticity. Regular therapy, both in and out of the water, has helped her maintain a good range of movement and stay active. She uses a powered wheelchair for independence and can complete step around transfers with support.

The Challenge

While Zoe's wheelchair provides essential postural support during the day, she found it difficult to fully relax once she came home. Her sofa didn't offer the structure or stability she needed, leaving her uncomfortable and making it harder to sit safely or stand when she wanted to.

Her family and care team wanted to find a solution that would give Zoe both comfort and the right level of support, somewhere she could truly rest, feel secure, and still enjoy her independence.

Finding the Right Solution

Following a full assessment, Zoe trialled the HydroTilt chair. It was clear from the start that the design and adjustability suited her perfectly. The HydroTilt provided the support her body needed, while still allowing her to feel comfortable and relaxed.

Zoe's Story...

...How the HydroTilt Helped.

The Difference It Made

Since bringing the HydroTilt into her home, Zoe has noticed a real change in how she feels and functions at the end of the day.

Now, she:

- Has a supportive and comfortable place to rest and recharge.
- Can relax more easily with the gentle Tilt-in-Space and soft headrest.
- Feels stable and well-supported thanks to the chair's tailored dimensions and foot support.
- Maintains good posture while enjoying a new, comfortable position.
- Stands more safely and easily with the flip-up footplate and negative angle leg rest.
- Zoe was quick to share how much she loves her new chair, especially the comfort of the headrest and how easy it is to relax.

Life with the HydroTilt

For Zoe, the HydroTilt has become much more than a chair. It's a place where she can unwind, feel secure, and enjoy her time at home with confidence and ease. It's helped her balance comfort, safety, and independence, all things that mean the world to her and those who care for her.

That smile says it all. Zoe felt immediately comfortable and relaxed in the HydroTilt. It gave her a new space at home where she could truly unwind.
